Editor's Picks

Husband Not Required

Take your tree up or down, with one set of hands, in the time it takes to change a diaper (thanks to the stabilizing well and screw-free clamping system). Canadian mom-invented, of course. $40, The Omega Tree Stand.

Are You Being Served?

The new MediaSmart Server lets you remotely access, back up and share files from any computer you approve networking with. Good news for the fastest laptop-adopting set, moms. Extra incentive: The Photo Webshare tool lets your A-list peeps view photos through a special Web address (goodbye emailing and posting). $699, Hewlett Packard.

Mama's Little Helpers

Fed up with the wimpy basket on your otherwise-brilliant stroller? Made from heavy-duty aluminum, these hooks will make schlepping as easy as snap and roll (and they don't slide around). $8 each, The Mommy Hook.

Trend Alert

Felt is having a moment and we love it, especially these cozy sweaters. Naturally resistant to staining and pilling, each is felted, dyed and detailed by one Canadian mompreneur's crafty hands. (Available in infant to size 6). From $120, Sweet Thing Designs.

Fill in the Blanks

Finally, a colouring book with imagination (and thick pages): Just add limbs and faces to set the scene. We wager these will buy you an

Retro Rise

Remember when reaching the table was as cheap and easy as a big, yellow phone book? Made of contoured foam, the Boost is a steal of a

My Pet Monster

Send a sketch and bio of Junior's scariest creature, and they'll send back a plush replica. Make-My-Own-Monster Custom Design Kit $249 US. EAQ

Pimp My Pod

With eight bedrooms, spy holes and an attic, this modern home is perfect for Polly Pockets and Transformers (or mice!) Biodegradable
